Coolkid and the Bike Challenge

After school, Coolkid rode his bike to the small park near his house. His friend Minh had a bike challenge: ride around three cones, turn near the mango tree, and stop on the chalk line. Coolkid liked bike games, but this one looked difficult.

On his first try, Coolkid went the wrong way and almost hit a cone. Some younger children watched, so he began to feel a little nervous. Minh smiled and said, "Take a deep breath. You can try again slowly."

Coolkid held the handlebars tightly and started again. This time, he looked ahead and did not rush. He passed the first cone, then the second, then the third. At the chalk line, he stopped safely.

After dinner, Coolkid told his dad, "I made a small mistake, but I tried one more time." Dad smiled and said, "That is how a real rider learns."
